FOREWORD

The literature on the Baltic Countries is quite extensive and growing each and every year. The bibliographic tools, however, are not quite adequate. The purpose of this list is to give a helping hand to Baltic scholars and students.

There is no such thing as a complete bibliography. Some works may have evaded the compilers attention, or were inaccessible to them, therefore, it was not possible to establish an authentic entry. The compilers tried to examine all the more important publications and describe them "de visu," and only a few items were taken from other trustworthy printed sources. On the other hand, not everything was included that was available. Excluded were: a) most of the traders catalogs, and b) selective bibliographic lists, prepared by public libraries for their readers as handy reference tools. However, a few exceptions were made for rare or well prepared catalogs by book dealers or libraries at the times when proper bibliographic works were not available. Also some selective bibliographic guides, prepared by the national libraries, often are quite exquisite and could provide good service, therefore, a few of those were included.

The Estonian Bibliographies presented here were part of a series of material collected during the past several years. This material was divided into four chapters and published in several periodicals. The first two chapters, "1. General Baltic Bibliographies," and "2. Lithuanian Bibliographies" were published in Lituanistikos Darbai (Chicago, 1969), v. 2, p. 141-186. Supplements to both chapters later appeared in the magazine Naujoji Viltis, no. 2 (1971) and no. 4 (1972). The Estonian bibliographies are to be found on the subsequent pages of this journal, and the last chapter, "Lettische Bibliographien" (with cooperation of B. Jegers) are going to be published in Journal of Baltic Studies probably this or next year. At a later time all the chapters may be combined into a book and brought up to date under the title: Bibliography of Baltic Bibliographies.

Most of the works listed in the above mentioned bibliographies are available in the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. The material of each chapter is arranged alphabetically by authors or titles, without division by subjects. Monographs on various subjects with more extensive bibliographic lists are also included. The final revision of the Estonian chapter was undertaken in June 1973.
